

Lease for Energy Efficiency

Challenge

The City and County of Denver is challenging businesses to ask about the Energy Star Score of buildings when making leasing decisions.

(Energy Star Scores are a 1-100 measure of building energy efficiency)

Save Money

Help your business save money by accounting for energy efficiency in your leasing decision.

We'll share resources on what you can do today both in your company's own space and with your property manager. We'll also provide you opportunities to learn about green lease clauses.

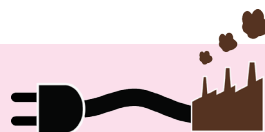

Get Recognition

Participating businesses will be recognized on the City and County of Denver's website, and we will invite you to a publicized kick off event.

Even if your company is not making a leasing decision in the near future, your participation helps to make the case for more efficient buildings in Denver.

Reduce Emissions

The energy used in buildings is responsible for 57% of greenhouse gas emissions in Denver. Participants help the city meet its climate action goals.
